Finance for Freelancers (Creative Skills Academy)

This course is perfect for someone who's a creative freelancer, whether new or experienced.

During this online workshop, you will be getting to grips with the basics of how money works when you are a freelancer or small business. You will go through ways of looking after money without getting bogged down in paperwork.

The session is run by David Thomas. He has helped thousands of trainees hone their finance skills since 2005. His background is in journalism and production, and he ran a couple of BBC departments before setting up his business.

- How to prepare for HMRC's Making Tax Digital project
- What an accountant can (and can't) do for you
