Visual Effects and Motion Graphics Pathway - Level 3 Extended Diploma

The first year of this two-year course keeps you busy exploring a broad range of underpinning media skills you will need to succeed. From graphic design and photography to visual effects, animation, film, sound design, and motion graphics, you'll have the chance to experiment and unleash your creativity. Delve into the theories that form the backbone of media production, applying them to your imaginative projects. This year serves as a playground for you to develop your creative practice, focusing on themes that resonate with your creative passions?

This course is the perfect fit if you're drawn to the creative industries but haven't yet uncovered all the possibilities. It provides an environment that nurtures experimentation and encourages the development of essential skills for the media landscape.

Extended Diplomas have two one-year programmes. You need to finish the first year before moving on to the second.

WHAT WILL I STUDY?

The second year will focus on your specialist area creating moving image sequences and animations. You will explore compositing, visual effects, animation and a wide range of post-production techniques and processes. You will learn animation techniques and discover the magic of seeing your ideas and characters come to life. This course will give you the building blocks for further study or a future career in the VFX, games or animation industries. There are opportunities to collaborate with students from other disciplines: filmmakers, actors, musicians, designers and artists.

Expert guidance from career advisors will assist you in plotting your future course, whether it's pursuing higher education or diving into apprenticeships. Making informed choices is crucial, and we're here to support you every step of the way. Through visits to creative institutions, universities, and thriving creative companies, you'll gain valuable insights and build connections that will shape your professional journey. The year culminates in a final project giving you the opportunity to showcase your creativity and talent.
